

PRESS RELEASE

500,000 Engine Control Units production target reached by Magneti Marelli in India in 2010

Magneti Marelli Powertrain India Limited - a joint venture between Magneti Marelli, Maruti Suzuki and Suzuki Motor Corporation, Japan -- closed the calendar 2010 by crossing the production mark of 500,000 ECUs (Engine Control Units) since it started producing the component in India in August 2008. This important milestone was achieved in company's plant at Manesar - the industrial district of Gurgaon, 40 kilometres from New Delhi.

To celebrate this landmark achievement, a ceremony was held in Manesar plant. It was attended by Mr. Eugenio Razelli, CEO of Magneti Marelli and Mr. Shinzo Nakanishi, Managing Director and CEO along with Mr. S. Maitra, Managing Executive Officer, Supply Chain of Maruti Suzuki.

The ECUs, both Diesel and Gasoline, made in Manesar are devoted to the Indian and International Market and they are fitted on several car models produced by Maruti Suzuki, Fiat India, Tata Motors and Volkswagen.

During the ceremony, a production line was inaugurated for the new YY4 diesel control units, which will join the current one and will allow, in 2011, to reach the target of one million ECUs to be produced.

This is an important result in a strategic market that in 2010 experienced a 30% growth compared to 2009 (source: IHS Global Insight), a market in which Magneti Marelli participates in 6 Joint Ventures and can count on 7 production plants that cover the Company's entire industrial perimeter.
